

APSCo's Codes of Conduct

All APSCo Codes of Conduct are reviewed on at least an annual basis. Agreement to the most up to date and appropriate Code of Conduct is a requirement of APSCo membership. All members are deemed to agree to the appropriate Code of Conduct by continuation of their membership.

INTRODUCTION

Through recognising, supporting and promoting excellence within the professional recruitment market, APSCo members provide other organisations, Government and candidates with a recognised stamp of quality assurance and the knowledge that dealing with APSCo members provides clear commercial advantage. The aim of this Code of Conduct is to enable Trusted Partners to demonstrate their commitment to providing the highest principles of professionalism, integrity, fair practice and ethics in dealing with recruitment firms and others. It is designed to enhance the operation, image and reputation of the recruitment profession and the staffing industry in every country in which APSCo members provide services.

Trusted Partners are also subject to the applicable APSCo Rules of Membership and may be subject to additional Codes of Conduct as a condition of their membership and these documents can be found at www.apsco.org

"APSCo group" means all companies within the APSCo group of companies globally.

"Candidate" means individuals seeking work-finding services and/or individuals providing services through the member, whether as an independent contractor, agency worker, umbrella worker or permanent employee.

"Client" means companies to whom members provide recruitment services.

Where a Client has appointed a "Managed Service Provider" (MSP) or a "Recruitment Process Outsourcer" (RPO) to manage their recruitment services, whether indirectly, or directly as a recruitment business in the chain of supply with the member, then all references to "Client" shall apply both to the end user of the Candidate's services and the facilitator of the recruitment process, namely the MSP/RPO, as applicable.
